RATIONING OF GASOLINE FOR NATION SEEN

WPB Orders Plan to Curtail Automobile Driving to Save Rubber.

START LIKELY JULY 1

Action Follows Disclosure By FDR That Limit Looms For Whole Country.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The possibility of further gasoline rationing spread over the nation today as the government considered curtailment of automobile driving throughout the country to conserve rubber.

The war production board directed the office of defense transportation to draw up a nationwide plan, in consultation with Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold L. Ickes and Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

July 1 was mentioned as the logical date to start the program, if it finally is adopted. This is the date consumer rationing by coupon books will become effective in the east and Pacific northwest, supplanting the present temporary card rationing system which began last Friday.

Overall gasoline consumption in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia now is curtailed by 50 per cent. Oregon and Washington, now with a one-third cut, will go on a one-half basis June 1. Rationing in these areas was brought about by the sinking and war diversion of tanker ships which normally supply the coastal regions.

The WPB was understood to have decided to prepare for nation-wide rationing after hearing a report that American motorists were wearing away tires and tubes at the rate of 45,625 tons a year, or 250,000 pounds of rubber a day.

President Roosevelt disclosed at his press conference yesterday that extension of rationing was being considered. He remarked that he would not consider it necessary to impose curtailments on localities where oil was produced, although he indicated some rationing might be needed in these areas to conserve rubber.

The WPB, having in mind the saving of rubber, indicated it was moving toward universal application of the gasoline consumption curtailments.

Under any expansion of the rationing program it was considered certain that motor fuel would continue to be provided for essential uses of vehicles. The biggest rationing problem in the east has been the determination of the amounts of gasoline to which the individual motorists are entitled.

FINED $4,000

Brick Company Officials Told to Pay $5,919 in Wages.

The Richland Shale Brick company, operating a plant northeast of Mansfield, was fined $4,000 today in federal court in Cleveland for violation of the wage-hour law and ordered to pay $5,919 in back overtime wages to 70 employes.

Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed assessed the fine against the firm, its president, John D. Conard, and Homer Beck, the secretary-treasurer. They pleaded guilty to federal grand jury indictments on 17 counts, accusing them of falsifying records and failing to pay time and a half for overtime.

An action filed several months ago by employes against the company is pending in Richland county common pleas court. The suit also involved overtime pay allegedly due the company workers.

BOOST INCOME TAX CHARGES

Committee Agrees on Raise In Levy and Much Steeper Surtax.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The house ways and means committee put the finishing touches today on new individual income tax rates increasing the normal levy from 4 to 6 per cent and graduating surtaxes steeply upward.

Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) announced that the committee had agreed both to increase the normal tax rate and to strive for an additional $2,750,000,000 in revenue, but he declined to disclose what the surtax rates might be.

Members indicated that the present 6 per cent surtax on the first $2,000 of net income probably would be jumped to 11 or 12 per cent, and that the maximum would be 80 to 85 per cent.

On the 12 per cent basis, a married couple with two children and a $3,000 net income who now pay $58 would have to pay $162 next year. A single man with the same salary, who now has a tax bill of $221 would be faced with a tax of about $437 next year, depending on the second surtax bracket level.

Present law calls for a 4 per cent normal tax and surtaxes starting at 6 per cent on the first $2,000 of net income. The treasury has recommended breaking that $2,000 income into four equal parts and imposing rates of 12, 15, 18 and 20 per cent, respectively.

Colin F. Stam, head of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, had recommended not only the 4 to 6 per cent increase in the normal rate but surtaxes starting at 11 per cent on the first $2,000 of net income.

Doughton said yesterday, however, he had asked for new tables based on "a little higher" rates.

Struck by Train, Then He Learns House's on Fire

BUCYRUS—Trouble came in a double dose Tuesday for George Halm, 43, storekeeper at the New York Central shops in Bucyrus.

Halm was hit by a train in Galion and just after he arrived at the Galion City hospital for treatment he learned that his home was on fire in Bucyrus.

His luck wasn't all bad, however, for his injuries were not serious and firemen were able to put out the fire without serious damage to the house.

Halm was struck by a fast freight train at the Galion depot as he crossed the tracks to board a Big Four train for Cleveland. He was thrown against the brick platform shelter at the station and received a cut on the back of his head and lacerations on his face. Six stitches were required to close the head wound.

The fire at Halm's home started in an overstuffed chair and was brought under control before it spread beyond one room. There was smoke and water damage.

Washington Hints Repeat of Doolittle Raid Over Japan

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—More raids on Tokyo may be possible if the base from which Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle and his 79 men took off to bomb the Japanese capital remains a secret, officials indicated today.

It is one of the most provocative secrets of the war and not the least interested to learn the answer are the Japanese.

Three Ohioans, Lieuts. Richard E. Cole, Dayton, William E. Bower, Cleveland, and Robert J. Meder, Lakewood, were among the pilots who bombed Japan under command of Brig. Gen. Doolittle, according to the war department. Cole's mother, Mrs. Fred Cole, lives at 747 Faulkner avenue, Dayton.

Officials hinted that a repeat performance of Doolittle's daring raid, which left a wake of death and destruction among warships, airplane factories and other military objectives in Japan on April 18, depends upon how well that secret is kept.

They are determined to keep it well and hope to be able to create in Tokyo again—and soon—the panic and excitement that Doolittle and his men precipitated when they appeared on that warm Saturday noon.

Doolittle, the dare-devil speed flyer of more peaceful days, when asked if he was going to try another raid, replied:

"That I don't know. It's in the laps of the gods and the war department."

Doolittle revealed virtually all details of the raid that he knew—except where the two-engined North American medium B-25

STOCK QUOTAS

WPB Expected to Limit Goods of Wholesalers, Retailers.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war production board is expected soon to limit the stocks of goods which may be held by retailers and wholesalers.

Such a plan is being considered by the board, informed persons said today, in order to assure an equitable supply of consumer goods, despite wartime production curtailments, for all merchants and their customers.

The action would cover a consumer field as sweeping as the universal price ceiling which went into effect on all retail sales Monday; that is, virtually everything that American wear, use or eat.

4,200 Children All Set for Big Show at Stadium Friday

Mansfield's biggest show of the year, the second annual physical education demonstration with a cast of 4,200 school children, is all set for presentation at Stadium Field Friday at 7:30 p. m., Athletic Director Harry Mehock said today.

Mansfielders who packed Stadium Field stands for last year's show were amazed at the precision and organization which permitted the demonstration to be run off in an hour and 25 minutes, after which the field was cleared of nearly 10,000 persons within 20 minutes and without a child being lost, even temporarily.

Mehock has arranged the same parking system and police aid for this year's show, and anticipates the same sort of record.

All public schools in the city are represented in Friday's program, and each school is selling tickets for the event at 10 cents. Proceeds will be retained by each school to be used in the purchase of playground and athletic equipment.

DRAFTS PLAN ON TIRE SAVING

Kalbfleisch to Confer With Labor Leaders, Merchants on City Program.

Plan to solve the tire situation by a "swap-ride" program among the city's industrial workers went ahead today as Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch called for a meeting of presidents of the A. F. of L., the CIO and the Retail Merchants' association.

Judge Kalbfleisch, who had the problem of obtaining civilian cooperation in the tire conservation program placed in his hands yesterday, said that he hoped an industrial committee could be set up soon to work out the program here.

The judge said he had asked the presidents of local labor organizations and the Retail Merchants' association to meet with him at their earliest convenience so that there would be no delay in the program.

He said that industrial workers faced the greatest transportation problem as downtown store and office employes would likely be able to make their own transportation arrangements in most cases if distance prevented their walking to work.

It will be the task of the new committee to contact workers in Mansfield industries in an effort to get them to "swap" rides with each other in order to save automobile tires. Workers living near their work will be asked to walk.

Judge Kalbfleisch, who has headed civilian defense in Mansfield since the start, said he had been advised by Courtney Burton, state director of civilian defense, that state officials of both the AFL and CIO had committed themselves to the responsibility of working out the transportation problem.

Himmler Assumes Control of Dutch Storm Troopers

LONDON — Heinrich Himmler, head of Germany's gestapo, has taken command of Dutch Nazi storm stroopers in addition to his continued control of the German storm troopers and police in the Netherlands, the Stockholm newspaper Tidnigen said today in a dispatch relayed to the Aneta news agency.

This followed a Stockholm report last night to Tass, Soviet news agency, that the Germans planned to incorporate the nation into the German reich as an autonomous province to be known as "niedermark" under the rule of Anton Mussert, Dutch Nazi leader.

A spokesman for the Netherlands government-in-exile warned Dutchmen in a broadcast from London that such a development appeared likely in view of the arrival of Himmler in the Netherlands.

Cripps Reveals RAF Raids Are Attack Prelude

Tells Commons Carefully Planned Thrust Will Be Made; British Planes Continue To Rip Germany, Pour Bombs on Mannheim Industrial Area.

(By United Press)

LONDON—The Churchill government informed the house of commons today, at the conclusion of a two-day war debate, that Great Britain is amassing strength and intends to "make a carefully planned attack on the continent of Europe."

The assurance was given by Sir Stafford Cripps, lord privy seal and government spokesman in commons, after former War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha had warned that Japan probably would attack Russia in the east if the Allies invade western Europe.

Cripps said that the RAF's heavy offensive against the vitals of Germany's war production is a prelude to an ultimate invasion, and the best way that Britain can aid Russia at this time.

"This bombing is, in our view, of material assistance to Russian resistance and the best way in which we can give assistance until such time as we are able to make a carefully planned attack on the continent of Europe, which we intend to do," he said.

Cripps defended Churchill against attacks on his conduct of the war, both as defense minister and prime minister, and said that the government is willing to stand or fall on a vote of confidence on its war policies.

Hore-Belisha had urged the creation of a ministry of defense composed of chief of staff to replace Churchill so that the framing of defense policies would be "unhampered by politicians."

Cripps replied that "there is no one with wider and longer experience in defense problems than the prime minister."

The government leader rejected demands for a public inquiry into the British reverses in the Pacific, including Malaya, Burma and Singapore.

Cripps repeated a pledge made earlier by Maj. Clement R. Attlee, deputy prime minister and dominions secretary, that Britain will do all in her power to aid Australia.

Discussing the war in the Mediterranean, Cripps said that during April more bombs were dropped on Malta than were dropped on Britain "in any month during the worst period of the blitz."

Churchill was unable to take part in the two-day war debate.

Of his unsuccessful mission to India to seek a defense agreement under a British offer of post-war dominion status, Cripps said that Britain has not closed the door to negotiations and is anxious to settle the problem.

Meanwhile, he said, the British are doing their best to solidify the defense of India against a threatened Japanese invasion.

Cripps wound up the debate for the government after Hore-

FUTILE: Nazis' Massed Tank Attack Fails to Halt Soviets

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—Marshal Simeon Timoshenko's power drive toward Kharkov was reported by Russian sources today to have penetrated "into the heart of the city's defense," while in the battle-torn Kerch isthmus of the Crimea the Nazis were believed massing 100,000 parachutists for a mighty air-borne invasion of the Caucasus.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—The German high command has thrown all available tanks into a futile attempt to halt the Red army's crushing offensive on the Kharkov sector, radio Moscow said today as the battle of Russia blazed into new fury at strategic points along the whole 1,800-mile front.

Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's German forces were reported "in flight" along the 100-mile front before Kharkov where thousands of tanks and masses of men fought in an infernal cauldron of destruction.

An attempted German counter-offensive on the Russian left flank, 70 miles southwest of Kharkov, was being held at a standstill, according to advices reaching Moscow from the front.

Tanks and men fought in such a tangle before Kharkov that planes, engaged in a war of their own over the smoke-clouded front, were unable to intervene.

Advices from the fighting fronts from the arctic to the Crimea told of these developments in the gigantic struggle:

1—The Moscow radio said the Germans, still falling back around Kharkov, are "hurling into battle all their spring reserves and all available tanks" in a vain and costly attempt to halt the Russian onslaught which already has recaptured more than 300 towns and villages.

2—German preparations for an offensive against Murmansk—port of arrival for war supplies from the United States and Britain—are being "paralyzed" by the

DEMAND: Australians Renew Call for Aid; Planes Hunt Foe

(By United Press)

MELBOURNE—Australia renewed its demand for more planes, men, guns and ships today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Allied air force continued its wide reconnaissance flights in search of an enemy invasion fleet.

One newspaper by implication criticized the United States for sending additional forces to northern Ireland unless they are intended for an immediate offensive against the German-held continent of Europe.

Air Minister Arthur S. Drakeford, in a statement, said:

"The need for planes cannot be too strongly stressed. . . . Our slogan should be planes, more planes and still more planes. Without them our task will be made heavier and longer."

The critical newspaper was the Sydney Daily Telegraph. Commenting on the arrival of American troops in northern Ireland it said:

"Australia would be the first to cheer the Americans if they were bound to Britain to participate in the coming critical weeks in an offensive against the Axis.

"But we shall not be so pleased if the Americans are going into camp for the summer.

"The United Nations should be rushing more men, ships, guns

THE WAR TODAY

Splitting Allies Axis Aim Says Early

(This daily feature, conducted by DeWitt Mackenzie, Wide World war analyst, is being Written in his absence for a fortnight by Fred Vanderschmidt.)

Now is the time to come down to earth and recognize the battle of Kharkov for what it is.

It is not an overwhelming offensive action by the Russians against a "half-dead" German army, nor are the Germans being encircled, or annihilated or are they fleeing in disorder.

It is, rather, a shrewd, well-timed and sustained tactical thrust of local character against a German force of sinister size and power which was all but ready to leap at the oil of the Caucasus from at least three directions.

It is intended to capsize the arrangements for that Caucasian offensive by ripping up the German lines of forward communication and transport and by grinding down the new mechanical weapons Hitler has assembled in the Ukraine.

From the last standpoint Marshal Timoshenko's offensive is succeeding. There is evidence the Nazis have lost a great many tanks and guns and have had to draw upon offensive reserves.

It does not appear, however, that the Germons have lost a great many men or that infantry has played any major part in the action.

In addition, the Russians themselves disclose that the German General Von Bock has evaded enveloping development of any great part of the 2,000,000 men he is supposed to have in the Ukraine.

The Germans have begun a counter-offensive in the sector Izwum-Barenkova, a deep flanking action below the southern end of the arc the Red Army was swinging toward Kharkov, and well to the east of the furthermost Soviet advance below Kharkov.

Until this is dealt with, the Red army cannot extend safely its lines southwest of Kharkove in the direction of the Germans' main communication arteries.

Fighting has spread over 150 miles of very fluid front, and, because of the strength of German fortifications before Kharkov and the power of Nazi counter-attacks, Russian frontal assault on the city has been on a treadmill basis, a grinding of steel against steel with both the Russians and the Germans undoubtedlyy sustaining severe mechanical losses.

Meantime the Nazis have gained at least domination over the Kerch Peninsula of the Crimea, although it is important that the enemy's extravagant claims be taken with reserve.

Now eight days old, the battle of Kharkov proceeds, and Timoshenko's skillful and well-equipped army is able to hold the initiative today in what the German's confess are strong attacks and hard struggles.

The enemy still holds Kharkov and may retain it, but every day that the Russian assault goes on there is more security for the truly vital Caucasus.

STEEL WORKERS AGREE TO WAIVE WAGE PREMIUMS

Murray Says Pay Freezing Would Be Inequality of Sacrifice.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The United Steel Workers of America, following CIO policy, has agreed to give up week-end and holiday wage premiums within the 40-hour week, but CIO President Philip Murray declares wage freezing would create an inequality of sacrifice.

After Murray had met scattered protests with an assertion that "you're not being asked to do anything that has not already been done by the national CIO," the union's constitutional convention accepted a recommendation of the CIO executive board. It stated there should be no insistence on overtime rates for Saturday, Sunday and holiday work within the 40 hours.

The union's wage policy committee was studying a proposal that employers be asked to start the 40-hour week on Monday, whenever possible.

Murray, who has served as the union's chairman during its six-year existence as the steel workers organizing committee, told the convention that freezing of all wages would be inequitable, working a hardship on those workers whose wages have not increased at the same rate as living costs.

He said living costs "in steel towns have risen 13 per cent between March, 1941 and March, 1942. Our people got an increase of 80 cents in that time, but living costs have surpassed it by far."

American labor, said Murray, "is prepared to lose its shirt to win the war, but labor has consistently advocated establishment of equality of sacrifice."

He declared there should be an early settlement of the "Little Steel" wage raises of $1 a day from Bethlehem, Inland, Republic, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Granting of the raise would not make the "inflationary spiral" go up "one decimal point," he asserted. "There are enough surpluses in the industry to pay the raise without disturbing the inflationary spiral."

Pipeline Expected to Provide Water for Cincinnati Arms Industries.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — Probability of great expansion of war production in the Smoky Millcreek valley was seen today as a result of presidential approval of a $2,978,000 public works project to provide new cold water sources to supplement the dwindling supplies for industries there.

One of the largest war plants in the Cincinnati area is known to be awaiting, among other things, adequate water before contracting to triple its present floor space. Others have in their files plans for enlargements demanding more water.

Evans Stearns, chairman of the industrial division of the Miami Valley Conservation association, estimates that the factories now are drawing 19,000,000 gallons daily from wells, against average natural replenishment of only 13,000,000. This has accelerated the steady decline of the Ohio water table in the valley.

The factories need well water, 50 to 60 degrees fahrenheit in temperature, for steam condensers. To use water impounded behind a dam, they would need costly cooling equipment, since surface water follows air temperature within a few degrees.

Details of the projects have not been released, but it is expected to be a two or three-foot pipeline 12 to 15 miles across a low ridge into the water-bearing sands of the big Miami valley. A three-foot pipeline, according to engineers, would provide enough water for all expected needs, while the smaller would serve the biggest users.

JAP DIPLOMATS EXPECTED TO LEAVE FOR EXCHANGE JUNE 10

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Responsible sources in Washington today said that June 10 has been set as the tentative date for the departure from the United States of the first group of Japanese diplomats and nationals who are being exchanged for Americans held in Japan.

The Japanese diplomats and nationals, expected to number about 1,000, will sail from an Atlantic port on or about that date for Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East African port, where the exchange will take place.

A Japanese vessel is bringing the Americans, including Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, to Lourenco Marques from Japan. This vessel also is expected to stop at Japanese-controlled ports along the China coast, including Shanghai, Amoy, Hongkong and Saigon, to pick up additional Americans.

The state department is understood to be experiencing some difficulty with the Japanese government concerning a few American nationals whom Tokyo wants to hold on one alleged charge or another.

However, American officials are threatening to retaliate and hold prominent Japanese nationals whom Tokyo wants to repatriate. This firm attitude is expected to bring the desired results and effect the repatriation of the Americans in question.

WARNS U. S. OF SHOUTS, INSINUATION

FDR Secretary Says Foes Try to Spread Dissention; Speaks at Toledo.

(By International News Service)

TOLEDO—White House Secretary Stephen T. Early today warned against efforts to divide the United Nations by stirring up dissension over distribution of war supplies and fighting men to the various battlefronts.

Speaking at the dedication of the new American Propeller plant, Early said:

"We shall not allow any words or any act of open enemies or misguided friends to divide us from our allies. We shall not listen to their shouted lies or their whispered insinuations. We know that these lies and these insinuations are designed to weaken our strength and corrode our will to victory."

At the same time, the spokesman for President Roosevelt gave renewed assurance that the United Nations are seeking no territorial gains in the death struggle with Germany, Japan and Italy. Early branded as Axis lies the propaganda that any move is afoot to divide up the world once the war is won.

By way of refutation the White House secretary quoted from the Washington New Year's day declaration in which all 26 nations accepted the principles of the Atlantic charter that complete victory over the Axis is essential "to defend life, liberty, independence and religious freedom and to preserve human right and justice in their own land as well as in other lands."

Early did not attempt to minimize the tough job ahead of the United Nations in defeating the Axis powers.

"We do not underestimate the size of it—or the cost in blood and pleasure," Early said. "But neither do we underestimate our capacity to carry it out to a victorious conclusion, knowing that there will be no peaceful life for anyone, anywhere in the world until the power of the Axis has been destroyed — everywhere in the world."

Early pointed to the new propeller plant which he was dedicating as a symbol of United Nation's power.

SOVIETS SMASH MASSIVE NAZI TANK ATTACK

Battles Blaze Along Entire Russian Front; 22 German Ships Sunk in North.

Soviet arctic fleet which has sunk 22 German ships, according to official advices.

3—The official army organ Red Star reported the shattering of a Nazi attempt to open a new assault on the Leningrad front with "several scores of tanks" and infantry forces.

4—On the central Kalinin front, the Red Star said, hand-to-hand battles were fought when the Germans slashed at Russian lines in an effort to find "soft spots" for a major attack.

5—In the Crimea on the Kerch peninsula, 320 miles south of Kharkov, Russian troops have been strongly reinforced and "new heavy battles are about to begin in the region of the town of Kerch" at the gateway to the Kerch straits at the Caucasus, the Moscow radio said.

Millions of men and tanks and planes by the thousands were locked in the battles of mounting intensity along the 1,800-mile front where it appeared that the Germans were preparing for new offensives in an effort to divert some of the Russian pressure from Kharkov.

A dispatch from the Russian northern fleet said air-naval combats were developing on the arctic front.

The Soviet arctic fleet was reported to have sunk 14 German ships totalling 95,000 tons during April and four German transports, two destroyers and two patrol boats were reported sunk since May 13.

A Red Star dispatch from the Leningrad front told of an exchange of blows between Russian and German tank-led forces, resulting in a Soviet counter-attack which cut enemy communications and disrupted Nazi lines of supply, leaving the Germans in "an extremely difficult situation."

The same sort of savage fighting was said by the Red Star to be underway around Kalinin, one of the German strong points from which Adolf Hitler's threatened big offensive probably would be unleashed.

Today's Soviet high command communique, which reported "offensive battles" by Timoshenko's forces around Kharkov and "intense fighting" around the town in the Crimea, described the vast destruction being inflicted by the Red air force behind the German lines.

Fleets of Soviet tanks, including 52-ton "Klim Voroshilovs," were said to be moving forward with Cossack cavalrymen fighting ever nearer to Kharkov.

In one sector German tanks attacked in a solid wall against the Russian center and flanks.

Tank-led Russian infantrymen and Cossack cavalrymen, driving behind a terrific artillery barrage and under an umbrella of protecting planes, made new important gains in key areas while reinforcements held a German counter-offensive on the Russian left flank.

Special front dispatches to the army newspaper Red Star reported that the Red army men had liberated several towns and villages and smashed and overrun new German defensive positions.

It was indicated that the German counter-drive, on a 25-mile front, had not yet fully developed.

In the Crimea, Russian resistance continued stoutly on the 11th day of the German offensive against the Kerch peninsula.

Before Leningrad, the Russians, suspecting a German move to strike at their right flank, started a local offensive of their own, cutting a strategic road and splitting the forces which the Germans were assembling.

It was reported that the Russians had inflicted terrible losses on three German infantry divisions and the 484th infantry regiment before Kharkov and that they had cut or immediately threatened three of four main railroads centering at Kharkov.

Desperate, German Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock sent a powerful force of tanks and infantry against the Russians on the front between Barvenkovo and Izyum, 70 miles southeast of Kharkov in an attempt to stop the great Russian offensive, now in its ninth day.

Declares Kerch Drive 'Propaganda'

KUIBYSHEV — (AP) — Major General Nikolai Zhuravlev declared today that the Nazi offensive in the Kerch Peninsula of the Crimea "was launched more from propaganda considerations than stretegic reasons" in an attempt to win a victory somewhere, however small.

The Soviet army tactician said German soldiers and officers have lost confidence in themselves and their leaders.

Berlin Says Armies At Kerch Strait

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) —(AP)— German and Rumanian armies stand all along the Strait of Kerch, having taken the last bridgehead on both sides of the city of Kerch and annihilated three entire Russian armies in a gigantic offensive which began May 8, the German high command declared today.

"The enemy lost 149,000 prisoners, 258 panzers, 1,133 guns and other war material beyond computation," said a communique supplementing a previous special announcement.

The German communique said renewed Russian attacks in the Kharkov area were repulsed "in hard struggles."

HINT REPEAT OF RAIDS ON JAPAN

Washington Officials Expect More Attacks If Base Remains Secret.

bombers took off, where they landed and how many were involved. And no hint came from anyone else whether they started their "hazardous and important" flight from China, aircraft carriers or a secret base.

For the present everyone let President Roosevelt's words on that subject stand — that the planes started from Shangri-la and landed at Shangri-la. Shangri-la is the fictitious utopia to which the president refers when people ask "from where did we bomb Tokyo?"

That technique seems to be working well. At least one partner of the Axis appears to be wondering where Shangri-la is. A German radio broadcast last night, describing Doolittle's raid, reported that it started from Shangri-la, "which was not otherwise described by President Roosevelt."

Doolittle revealed at his press conference some hitherto unknown details about the raid. First he spiked Japanese claims that some of the American raiders had been shot down.

"There were no planes left in Japan," he said. "Some were damaged, but none was shot down and none was damaged to an extent that precluded its proceeding to its destination."

Doolittle, who was attacked by nine Japanese fighters but avoided them before either the enemy or his own gunners could fire a shot, revealed that he issued special instructions to his men before taking off that the imperial palace in Tokyo was to be spared.

Weeks before the raid the men who accompanied him volunteered for what then was described as a "hazardous and important" mission. Just before they took off, after weeks of special rehearsals in the United States, they were informed that their objective was Tokyo.

They took off in their specially equipped B-25's, the same type of medium bomber that accompanied army flying fortresses on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's recent raid on the Philippine islands. In the words of their commander yesterday, it was the "finest group of men I ever have had the good fortune to be associated with."

Japanese anti-aircraft fire was so inaccurate that the enemy shot down many of their own barrage balloons. The American bombers were faster than any Japanese fighters sent aloft to intercept them except the Japanese zeros.

The raid covered an area 40 miles long and five to 20 miles wide, Doolittle said, and extended from the north of Tokyo down south to Kanagawa, Yokohama and the navy yard at Yokosuka. Bombs also were dropped on Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe.

British Bombers Blast At Mannheim

BULLETIN

LONDON —(U.P.)— Allied air commands are aiming at expansion enabling them to send 1,000 bombers a night against German targets, an authoritative source indicated today.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Powerful groups of the Royal Air Force's biggest bombers, resuming their attacks on the reich after 11 days of bad weather, showered Mannheim, an important chemical and armament-producing center in southwest Germany, with explosives and incendiaries during the night.

The submarine base at St. Nazaire, France, which British commandos recently raided, also was heavily attacked.

The size of the attacks was indicated by the air ministry's announcement that 12 bombers were missing. Two fighter planes also were missing from night operations over German airdromes in northern France and Holland. The British destroyed one Nazi plane.

The principal targets at Mannheim were war factories, including the Badische Anilin chemical works, the Lanz armament works and the Daimler-Benz engine works.

To carry out the raid on Mannheim, the RAF bombers had to make a round trip of at least 500 miles.

Thousands of persons throughout southern Britain had heard planes thundering toward the channel during the night. Members of the United Press staff, living in many sections of London, reported that they were awakened at intervals by planes, and Londoners coming to work on street cars and buses agreed that "our blokes must have kept the home fires burning last night."

'Bomb' Vichy Area With Leaflets

VICHY, France — (U.P.) — British planes dropped American-printed leaflets over unoccupied France during the night, containing a promise by President Roosevelt that all occupied French possessions would be restored after the war.

Wave after wave, to an obligato of anti-aircraft gun fire, the Royal Air Force planes droned over the Vichy area showering their leaflets on town and countryside.

All the leaflets bore the statement that they were printed by the United States government and distributed by the British air force.

It was half an hour before the planes, flying from north to south, ended their leaflet distribution which apparently marked the opening of a joint Anglo-American campaign to assure the Frenchman in the street that despite any allegations of Vichy collaborationists, the United Nations were out to free France and the other countries under the German heel.

The raid came at a time when Vichy sources claimed to have received reports that Britain might move soon against French Somaliland and government leaders were conferring on a serious clash between British and Vichy air and navy forces off Algeria, on the French North African coast.

NEW YORK FACES DARKER DIMOUT

Residents Warned Blackout for Duration's Alternative.

NEW YORK—(INS)—New Yorkers today were faced with the alternative of producing a dimmer dim-out or being subjected to a nightly blackout for the duration of the war.

Designed to reduce sky-glare which aids enemy submarines in sighting silhouetted United Nations ships, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine warned that if the public failed to voluntarily douse powerful lights that aid the U-boats he would order all commercial lighting forcibly blacked out.

Meanwhile, the department of water supply, gas and electricity announced it was planning to curtail street, bridge and park ligths.

Warned yesterday in Columbus that the rubber situation is serious and that the use of county trucks and road equipment must be kept at a minimum, County Engineer Howard Sword said today that Richland county road operations this year will be limited to necessary repair and maintenance work.

Sword attended a meeting in Columbus of county and state highway engineers with the Ohio Good Roads federation.

Representatives of the War Production board and the American Road Builders' association said truck loads will be limited to conserve tires. Truckers making a round trip of 30 miles or more will be required to haul a 75 per cent load on their return trip. Counties will need special permission from the WPB to purchase any road or bridge materials beyond those needed for maintenance, the engineers were told.

Sword said new construction will be out of the question this year and the county will be fortunate to get enough materials to make necessary repairs to road.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1942.

As Barnum might say of the gasoline shortage: "You can't fuel all of the people all of the time."

In a democracy it is "we," not "they," who are responsible for things that are done by government.

It is being noted that the spirit of prayer has become more widespread throughout the United Nations—and, supplemented by steadily increasing military power, it cannot be doubted that right will eventually prevail.

Hundreds Will Contribute Blood

ANNOUNCEMENT that more than six hundred residents of Mansfield and Richland county—within the age range of 21 to 60—have volunteered to give some of THEIR OWN BLOOD for use in saving the lives of men serving in the nation's fighting forces is not only a tribute to community patriotism but also a revelation of confidence in medical science, which has performed the modern miracle of transforming blood plasma into a powder that can be kept indefinitely, sent anywhere in the world and used for emergency transfusions wherever needed.

It is under sponsorship of the Richland county chapter of the American Red Cross that this blood-giving activity is being conducted—in response to the government's call for donations of human blood to be used in transfusions to save lives of service men and civilians in war areas, suffering from shock following injuries, hemorrhage or burns.

Not all can become blood donors even if they wish to make this contribution, for there are certain health and age requirements that must be met.

Assurance is given, however, that any healthy person, between the age of 21 and 60, can spare a pint of blood without any weakening effect and with slight discomfort—and that such donations can be made at eight-week intervals if desired.

It will be during Memorial day week-end—May 28, 29 and 30—that a mobile blood donor unit from Cleveland will be in Mansfield to perform the blood-taking service for donors in this city and county. The hours will be from 1 to 5 p. m. each of these days, with Bethany house of the First Presbyterian church as the donation center.

It is explained that this unit will be completely staffed with physicians and nurses and the experience is one likely to give a thrill of satisfaction to those who realize that some of their own blood may have a share in saving lives in faraway places—or possibly close at home.

War Changes 'Service' Ideas

"THIS railroad is no longer operated primarily for the convenience of the travelling and shipping public." So runs a newspaper advertisement of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, which is busy transporting soldiers and war supplies.

These few words sum up the general situation in which Americans now find themselves. People have been accustomed to having things done for their convenience. Advertisements emphasize the service which stores and business houses stand ready to render. In consequence, many have come to think that the purpose of all business is to minister to public convenience. Maybe in normal times it is.

These are not normal times. It will be better to rely on one's own resources from now on. "Service" is much reduced for the duration.

Military Flying Gets Preference

THERE isn't going to be much civilian flying from now on. Such transportation will be allowed only for real emergencies or public errands. The commercial air fleet is cut one-half and will be reduced more later on. Air mail, too, will probably be curtailed. Commercial flying yields to military flying.

This throws a new burden on the railroads, which are already overworked. It is expected that passenger and freight priorities will soon hit them.

The buses still run, and will doubtless continue, but there may be fewer bus lines and thinner schedules.

Automobile traffic is being drastically reduced by lack of gasoline in some areas and insistence on rubber-saving everywhere. Bicycles still flourish, but the boys and girls need not be surprised if they are asked to use them only for necessary transportation, to school and on errands. Vacation touring will be very slim this year.

Evidently it is going to be a fine summer to stay at home and take care of the house and yard, do a little gardening, and save money to buy war bonds and otherwise sustain the fighting services.

Propaganda Also Poisons

THE German threat of poison gas adds new fear to a war which has horrors enough. And when the threat appears on one side, the other side feels obliged to arm itself likewise, in self-defense. All of the belligerents now, including the United States, are said to be prepared along this line, or getting ready. Such a mode of warfare, perhaps more than any other, shames civilization. Americans fervently hope they will not have to use it.

Poison gas of the familiar types can be met, or weakened in its effects, by the use of gas masks, which are now being supplied to American fighting men.

More destructive so far in this war, and perhaps more perilous in the future, is the gas of poisonous propaganda. It operates more subtly than the chemical kind, and against it Americans have to be constantly on guard.

Bright Future for Engineers

DR. HARVEY N. DAVIS, president of Stevens Institute, is worried about the engineering situation. Not railroad engineers, but the scientific type with college degrees. They are the fellows who have to handle the new methods and gadgets and do research work for the future. It is all right so far, he says, but at the present rate of war absorption for men with such skills, there will be a serious shortage in two or three years, with not enough engineers to meet the demands of civil life.

This is an excellent time for students in high school and college who have a gift for such scientific work to prepare for it.

Now that congressmen are to have unlimited gasoline for campaigning will the same privilege be accorded opposing candidates?

Shipping Needed to Defeat Japan

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — One very important feature of the concentrated drive against Germany—letting Japan run riot for the time being—is that to defeat Japan will require an unbelievable amount of shipping—not only the merchant ships, transports, tankers, etc., but war ships, patrol planes, airplane carriers to carry fighters, etc., to protect the supply lines.

The moment Germany collapses, which the most pessimistic officials are now privately predicting will be by December, 1943,—and the most optimistic by next December, the entire service of supply, and protective service for that line, can be diverted to that effort.

It's only a fraction of the total involved, but sometimes a small illustration is better than a sweeping generalization, so take the case of the Italian passenger ships which have been tied up in port since the outbreak of the war. Two of these, the Rex and the Conte de Savoia, are each considerably larger than the Leviathan, which in the last war carried troops to and later from France at the rate of 10,000 a trip!

* * *

ASSUMING that these ships are not destroyed in the last days of the debacle of the Axis in Europe, both would be immediately pressed into service for the smothering movement which would then be undertaken against Japan. Each trip these two ships make would involve the transportation of more than 25,000 men, assuming that they were used for troop carriers. As both are very fast, they would be ideal for that purpose.

Incidentally the Rex had the so-called blue ribbon of the Atlantic meaning that she made the fastest time across the ocean in history, up to the time the Normandie broke her record. The Conte de Savoia is said to be just as fast.

Bear in mind that this is only a little illustration of the increased mobility of the United Nations once Hitler is smashed.

As to the probability of seizing German ships for the same purpose, it is pure guesswork as to what the Nazis would do before the final collapse. Cold logic, however, might work out interestingly. The prospect which the Germans would face at that time would be very different from what it was in 1918, when they scuttled their war fleet at Scapa Flow.

* * *

THIS time, assuming their own collapse, the Germans would know precisely what the United Nations wanted to do with any ships they might be able to get. The question is; would the Germans want to help or hinder that purpose?

In other words, would the Germans want Japan, once Germany had collapsed, to cement its control over all the territory the Nipponese will by that time be occupying? Naturaly there is no official information on such a hypothetical question. But the Germans understand the Japanese as thoroughly as any foreigner. They know that the Japs are purely selfish and unscrupulous. They know that the Japs fought them in 1914 just to get a little loot, and then quit, never bothering to help their European allies any further. They know that Japan went into this war just for the loot, and that its only interest is holding on to that loot.

It seems possible that the Germans would be glad to see the Japs cut down to size, once Germany had collapsed, on the theory that "next time," when Germany, as they will figure, will be really triumphant, the "Fourth Reich" will not have to battle a mighty Nippon to get what she will then be wanting.

The Nazis could figure, very logically, that once the war is over the democracies will lapse into weakness as they did after 1918, but they know better about Japan.

Out of the Depths

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S that story of the Squalus—. Remember when she went down, and the horror of waiting shook us all? The hope that, somehow, she would be raised before it was too late? But it wasn't to be. Before she saw the surface again death had shrouded her. Dead men were floating in her hull, and since then she has seemed to most of us a forgotten thing.

But she was not forgotten. And we heard the true story recently in the president's speech. Up she came at last, out of her berth in death. Up she came, covered with rust and slime and barnacles, filled with her tragic freight. Up she came, but not to be abandoned, for before she was dry men were swarming over her . . . mending her wounds, cleaning the death from her heart . . . putting her back into her place in the fighting ranks of American ships. Until at last she sailed under a new and gallant name, the U. S. S. Sailfish, and today she is fighting as she never fought before.

She is fighting as if all the anger and agony of her last hour were gathered into a supreme effort to crush the evil force which sent her to the bottom. She has sunk a Japanese destroyer. She has torpedoed a Japanese cruiser. She has made two torpedo hits on a Japanese aircraft carrier. And three of the enlisted men who went down with her in 1939 are today serving on her same deck.

SHE WAS LOST, BUT SHE ROSE FROM THE DEPTHS!

I'm thinking of that as I think of the thousands of men and women who have gone down in these last few years. They have faced as cruel a sabotage as any war can bring, those men and women. They have faced grief, which has left a part of their hearts dead. They have faced shame and betrayal and their own remorse.

And for months or years they, too, have lain in the depths, seemingly forgotten and disqualified. But the war's fierce challenge has reached even them. Something has stirred in them . . . something has lifted them out of their slimy graves . . . Something has given them new hope and trust and pride in themselves.

AND SO TODAY THEY RISE FROM THEIR DEPTHS TO TAKE THEIR PLACE IN THE FIGHTING RANKS!

For there are no lasting graves to the men and women of today. We cannot, we dare not, give up. We cannot, we dare not, accept our own defeats as final. There is something for us all to do and in order to do it we must put our own wounds behind us. We must forget that we are sick or broken-hearted or weak or lonely or beset by endless bewilderness. Even though we be scarred by our long burial, we must rise from the depths.

RISE FROM YOURS!

Clean the death from your heart . . . clean the rust from your desire . . . stop thinking of yourself and the ravage which time has wrought. The greatest challenge on earth is calling to you. No matter how old you are or how crippled or how obscure, there is something for you to do. And in doing that something you will find new life.

ANSWER THAT CHALLENGE! RAISE YOURSELF FROM THOSE DEPTHS.!

Grab For "X" Cards.

Senator Harold H. Burton has set an example which other members of congress will do well to follow. Instead of getting an unlimited gasoline ratibn card as he could have demanded under the regulations, he took a limited card. The first rush of members of congress for the X-cards—the unlimited type—is certain to disgust constituents back home who willingly are following every ration rule and restriction set by Washington.

The X-card grab by members who do not have the foresight and restraint that Senator Burton displayed has all the marks of the recent and notorious bill for pensions for congressmen which was side-tracked after the roar went up in the home districts.—Toledo Blade.

Congressmen Bait Henderson On Gas Rationing and Price Ceiling

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Original reason for Price Administrator Leon Henderson's secret testimony before the house appropriations committee was to report on future rationing prospects and the administrative machinery needed to handle the vast rationing program.

However, the meeting almost broke up in a row before Henderson was able to complete his report. Two members went round-and-round with him over gas rationing and price controls on crude oil.

Henderson gave the committee a secret list of 15 new commodities which may have to be rationed but he cautioned that the list, which included coffee, tea, clothing and certain dairy products, was only tentative and may be changed.

"I cannot predict with any certainty just what additional commodities will have to be rationed, and how soon," Henderson said in effect. "It depends on a number of factors—the trend of the war, shipping losses, this year's crops and other things. We might have to begin rationing certain food products and clothing, needed by our allies, within a month. Also, it is possible that within a year, virtually every major consumer commodity may have to be rationed."

But it was when Henderson revealed that gasoline rationing soon may be extended to the entire country that the fireworks started.

* * *

Angry Johnsons.

WELL, if you administer other rationing as you have gasoline so far, the country will be in a terrible mess," snapped Representative George W. Johnson of West Virginia. "West Virginia should never have been forced to ration gas. My state produces more gasoline than it needs for its own use."

"We haven't discriminated against any state," retorted Henderson. "We are trying to act in the interest of the country as a whole."

"You and your outfit are using dictator methods," flared Johnson. "You're always trying to act independently. Congress can't be independent. It has to answer to the people. We're the servant of the people and you're the servant of congress. We may have something to say about your dictatorial policies when the budget estimate to increase your personnel comes before us."

Hardly had this hot exchange been stricken from the record when another broke out with another Johnson doing the swinging.

This time it was Representative Jed Johnson of Oklahoma who jumped Henderson for "running small independent oil producers in my state out of business." He pointed out that several hundred "stripper" oil wells in Oklahoma already have shut down and many others soon will have to follow because of inability to meet high production costs under the crude oil price ceilings fixed by Henderson's OPA.

"We need all the oil we can get for the war," declared Johnson, "and yet these wells are being forced to shut down. Do you know what a stripper well is?"

"No, I don't," said Henderson. "I don't profess to know everything. But I have oil experts who will supply you with that information."

Finally cooling down a bit, Johnson got a promise from Henderson that Oklahoma's small oil well owners would be given an opportunity to present their complaints.

Do-As-Done-By.

HERE is the most unique job of selling War Bonds and Stamps that we have run across to date.

The Wolf and Dessauer Department Store of Ft. Wayne, Ind., recently celebrated its 46th anniversary. And instead of staging the traditional anniversary sale, its entire celebration was devoted to the sale of bonds and stamps.

Every line of newspaper advertising, usually devoted to drygoods, was an appeal to buy bonds. Every salesman and saleswoman concentrated on the drive. Each floor of the store vied to sell the most. Departmental buyers and employes planned all the advertising and all the direct-mail selling.

In the end, G. Irving Latz, a Hoosier Marshall Field, together with his employes, managed to sell $300,000 in stamps and bonds during that one week.

Bathtubs vs. Goodwill.

IT HASN'T leaked out yet, but the U. S. government has just held up six bathtubs, ordered by the king of Egypt, in a manner which doesn't look so good for future friendly relations around Suez.

Ordinarily the question of six bathtubs would be a laughing matter. However, it happens, that one of the most important countries in the world to the Allied effort is Egypt—ruled by King Farouk, who is an important spiritual leader of 500,000,000 Moslems in the vital areas of the Near East and India.

To win his favor, Hitler probably would have sent King Farouk a hundred bathtubs. But not the United States. The bathtubs were ordered last September, but as of today they have not been shipped.

The bathtub incident, however, came on top of several others which have made royal blood boil.

The first was the order of 20 trucks by King Farouk under a license from the British Middle East Authorities on Jan. 26. The trucks were paid for, delivered to the steamship company's docks in New York. Then suddenly, Col. F. I. Kerr, chief of export control, stepped in.

Twenty trucks more or less in the United States probably would not make half as much difference to the war as the goodwill of the Egyptian government. Admiral Greenslade recently reported that 40,000 trucks were piled up at an eastern port. However, T. W. Flatley, of the treasury's procurement division, has just wired the representative of his Royal Highness that his 20 trucks will be requisitioned.

The bathtub incident goes back to two months before Pearl Harbor when 12 enamel tubs were ordered for installation in the Abdin Palace in Cairo. However, just as the tubs were about to leave for Egypt last January, it was discovered that the company had made a mistake regarding the specifications on six of the 12 tubs. Meanwhile the WPB had frozen all bathtub supplies.

The Egyptian legation asked for a special license to export six substitute tubs, but Col. Kerr, of export control, officially replied:

"This office feels that the export of these bathtubs would not be in line with the national policy."

Meanwhile the king's friends say that regardless of what U. S. "national policy" may be, he has given one of his palaces to the British for a hospital and that in another palace he is equipping, his personal policy is to keep clean.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Mr. Paul Ward-Brody, former editor of a women's fashion magazine, has some faults to find with Washington women. He thinks they dress sloppily and are inclined to just let themselves go.

Ward-Brody is now employed by a chemical company. He is making a survey of the nation's fire-fighting equipment and while doing so has an opportunity to observe the gals in a lot of our government offices.

* * *

GAUGING them against his observations of womenkind as editor of a fashion magazine, he levels these complaints against our "defense girls" (who, in keeping with the present trend, probably now ought to be called "war effort girls"):

1. They allow their hair to go to loose ends.

2. They have "telltale hands" from lack of lotion.

3. They let their lipstick peel, have "smudgy" makeup.

4. They wear spotted clothes.

In one office that he visited, said Ward-Brody, seven out of nine girls wore their stockings with the seams crooked.

Ward-Brody's concern is that all this has a demoralizing effect on the war effort.

"Nothing bolsters man's esprit de corps (French for "the ol'pepper in there, gang!") more than the charm of a well-groomed woman," he says. "It is in her power to inspire greater efficiency and the necessary constructive thinking for the war."

In all justice to Ward-Brody, it must be admitted that not all Washington girls would stack up with the models he used to run into during those days on the women's magazine. One of the wrongest ideas about Washington is that it is jammed with choice bits of femininity who would rate right up there with Hepburn and Bette Davis.

* * *

BUT—in all justice to the girls—it must be said that very often there's a darn good reason if sometimes they're not right up to snuff. The reason is that as a whole they're the hardest-working bunch of girls in the country. It's another wrong idea about Washington that stenos spend half of their time fixing their hair or slipping out for a cup of coffee. It may be true in some cases—and in some offices more than others—but I think I can give you a good idea of how hard some of the girls work by relating just one story:

In one war-important office, a girl I know worked for 36 hours, right straight through. And before she finally went home, three others had been carried out

That sort of stuff doesn't leave much time for repairing fingernail polish, but it can't be said that it's exactly holding back the war effort either.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Charles A. Lindbergh's epic Atlantic flight began this day in 1927, when he took off alone from Mineola, N. Y., in his monoplane "Spirit of St. Louis." Ten thousand frenzied people almost mobbed him when at ten o'clock in the evening of May 22 he landed at Le Bourget field outside Paris. His plane carried him across the ocean in thirty-three and one-half hours.

Mushroom Hunting

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR the past three weeks, I have frequently gone up the slope just at sunrise, to look for mushrooms. At that early hour, my family is still asleep and this very fact is satisfaction that all is well and as it should be.

The dewy grass awaits my coming and drenches my shoes, my ankles and the lower portion of each pant leg. At first the dampness is a shock but soon it becomes a lovely part of my little upland journey. Perhaps the sponge mushrooms, growing near the top, add purpose to an early morning jaunt—all plans are interesting in proportion to the purpose.

The bold white blooms of dogwood accent each brambly nook. The wild crabapple sends its fragrance along the slope. The low, unopened buds of blackberries scent the hill with rich wild odors. The fragrance of the good earth rises into my nostrils as I move upward, half stooped, to climb with greater ease. In it I smell the warm hint of decaying mould, disintegrating rock, myriads of extending roots and the green odors of tender grass.

All objects appear different burdened with morning dew. There is a softer tenderness in the cool leaf of the wild cherry, in the clustering, half-folded twigs of maple, in the large nearly open buds of sassafras. Little shoots of white oak flaunt deep painted cushions of dull scarlet, old rose and mauve, embroidered with shades of delicate, grayish green.

It is wonderful to reach the top and feel the weariness of the climb, while the fresh beauty of early morning, free from warmth of sun and dust of traffic, moves over my moistened face.

Here I would sit and rest, but at my feet I see the dewy, cone-shaped mushroom sponges emerge from the forest leaves, some with leaves upon them. Then I forget that I am tired, and quickly fill my old felt hat. I find them growing around decaying apple stumps in a mat of tangled, rooted, woodsy soil. Sometimes they are under the spreading branches of a white oak. It is a thrill to stand and watch sharply the leafy floor and recognize the mushroom as it slowly comes into view, clean and moist, out of its drab environment.

Mushrooms fried in butter for my breakfast—the flavor whetted by a farmer's appetite, and by the exhilaration of the walk! Like a hungry kid, I hurry home to get the family up.

STATE CAPITAL LOOKS SAME IN WAR BUT ISN'T

Reporter Pries Off Lid to Find Transportation and Industry Changed.

(The Associated Press made a cross-section survey to discover how the average Ohioan has been affected, what he is doing in the war effort. This is the third of a series of articles.)

* * *

By EDWIN B. GREENWALD

COLUMBUS—(AP)—You walk up to a man and you say:

"What's the war done to this town?"

He looks at you queerly and says, "Wha'cha want, chum?"

So you ask him again, "What's the war done to this town?" And he shrugs, waves an arm haphazardly, and reports that it looks very much the same to him.

And so it does, this town of Columbus in the fifth month of war. Outwardly it looks and acts very much the same with its multitude of office workers in clean shirts and crisp dresses, the bright lights at night and the no-left-turn signs by day, streets cluttered curb to curb with automobiles old and new, the same old peddlers and the quiet homes along miles of tree-lined avenues.

But it isn't the same. Pry off the lid and you'll see the changes brought by war. The man who said he could see no difference still was looking by habit upon the superficial scenery and customs. Perhaps he even forgot for the moment that he rode downtown this morning on a crowded bus, or doubled up in his neighbor's automobile. Street railway systems are carrying capacity loads; parking lot operators say their traffic is off as much as 25 per cent.

Maybe he forgot that his working hours will be changed one of these days, part of a plan to stagger hours of all office and industrial workers to rid the transportation system of those terrific early-morning and late-day jams.

Maybe he forgot that tonight he will go to the high school for another air raid warden class, forgot that when the boys get together in his kitchen they no longer talk of Paul Brown and Ohio State football.

Maybe he forgot . . .

The army is building a huge field to base a bombardment squadron, the navy has leased for $1 a year the city's municipal airport, and hard by the airport a factory is turning out slick scout planes for the navy; that acres of new buildings on a fringe of the city are part of the rapidly-expanding supply depot for the army.

Factories—Columbus never had a lot of them—are thundering full blast day and night, making steel landing mats for portable flying fields, shell cases, airplane instrument panels, binocular lens, leakproof gasoline tanks, freight cars, fire engines for home front protection, equipment for the army engineering corps, parts for battleships, steel plating, conveyors, paint, planes . . .

Soldiers everywhere. Men in civilian clothes coming each morning by the bus loads, emerging from Fort Hayes at nightfall in khaki, gone a day later to "somewhere" and new men taking their places.

They fill the clubs and the joints while they are here, and so do the folks who have found unexpected money in defense factories.

Maybe the man who saw no difference hasn't been around 101 North High street lately. The state defense council does its business there, the same council that six months ago was composed of a director and three aides who worked in a small office adjoining the governor's suite in the capitol. The council has 100 employes or more now, is spreading over two floors of a large building.

Maybe he hasn't been around the hotels, the state offices, the better clubs and seen the army stripes and navy braid. Nor heard that the city fire department has developed one of the most advanced auxiliary departments in the nation; for instance, establishing fully-trained crews in each industrial plant. Or noticed the guards that stand stoically by so many buildings, industrial and business, or the identification badges men and women wear.

All that is what the man sees everyday; customary things, with the bellow of Broad 'n' High choking off the rumble of the factories. He seldom looks up any more to see the bombers that stream east and west. Probably he does not intend to be cynical; he simply is not aware that a great change has come to this normally calm and docile city that was disturbed by nothing but football and parades.

Maybe he sees the governor stroll leisurely across Third street to a private club for lunch about 12:30 each day. He might have overlooked, however, that today an army officer goes with the governor.

Here's a Gentler Way to Treat Constipation!

Do you think you have to take harsh cathartics or purges every time constipation makes you miserable? You don't — if you are one of those people with normal intestines who suffer from constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. There is a pleasanter and gentler way.

All you do is eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is a crisp, delicious cereal. It works quite differently from many medicinal laxatives. They work by prodding the intestines into action or by drawing moisture into them from other parts of the body. But ALL-BRAN acts principally on the contents of the colon, helping you to have easy and normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, see a doctor.

Repulsed In-Law Makes Much Trouble

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Mine is a long story, but I will begin with what is troubling me at the present, as it relieves me just to put it on paper.

I have an in-law who made it plain to me that he likes me. But when I repulsed his attention he began making trouble for me, and has been at it over ten years. I have two little boys of eight and six. My husband and I get along all right when this relative of his isn't bothering me.

His whole family seem to want to separate us and are doing everything to get my husband to come back to them. They just want him to keep them. His mother was divorced and came back to her mother's house with several small children.

It may sound strange to you, but every day I hope the Army will take my husband so that I will be forced to work and maybe make a happy life for my little boys and myself. My husband gets into awful tempers sometimes and throws around furniture—I don't know whether it's wise to hide such things from the little ones or let them see what can happen to an uncontrolled temper.

Please let me know what to do as I am about at my wits' end.

"CONFUSED."

Haven't you been too easy with this trouble-making in-law? Why not tell him to keep out of your house and out of your life? If your husband feels called upon to defend his brother and charge you with unfriendliness to his family, be frank. Tell him the whole story as you've told me. I can't see why you've let this situation go on for ten years. This type of shadow-boxing is a mistaken solution for peace at any price.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A twenty per cent increase in illegitimacy cases was brought to the attention of the juvenile court during the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1941, over the preceding year, in the District of Columbia. Would it not be well to make adjustments without the necessity of a court hearing?

Would it not be possible to have the paternity of a child established through the voluntary statement of the father, which would save the man a quasi-criminal record?

X. Y. Z.

Liberalization of the law governing the support of illegitimate children has been much discussed in the District of Columbia recently. There is no provision under existing law whereby a man may come voluntarily into court and acknowledge the paternity of a child. If this law were amended, it would operate toward better relationship between the parents, and toward a greater possibility of their marrying.

Laws governing illegitimacy in many parts of the United States are distinctly obsolete.

Important to Care for Your Kitchen Ware

Your grandmother probably included in her daily chore schedule the polishing of her brass doorknob and knocker, the fender and her array of kitchenware and cutlery. Modern housekeeping is not so arduous, but we do have a greater variety of metals and surfaces to deal with. Here are some hints on the care and preservation of today's household effects:

1. Chromium. This metal has almost entirely replaced nickel because it is easy to keep clean, does not tarnish or rust. It requires nothing more than a good cleansing with soap and water. But to keep it bright and shining it should be carefully wiped and kept thoroughly dry. If it isn't, it will show water spots.

2. Copper and Brass. An old time cleansing method was to use salt and vinegar and this is still good today. However, in Revere's kitchen they like to take a small piece of lemon, dip it in salt and rub the bottom of their copper-clad kitchen ware. It's simple and easy and your ware will always be bright and shining.

3. Aluminum has an unpleasant way of darkening, especially if it comes in contact with strong alkalies such as lye, washing soda or potash. It also discolors, or oxidizes, due to the metal combining with the air. It acts very much as silver does and the discoloration is especially noticeable if sulphur is present. A fine abrasive, such as pumice or steel wool will brighten it.

4. Silver. Do not use abrasives to clean silver. Use a good grade polish made especially for the purpose. The base of all good cleansers is calcium carbonate which is very much like whiting, which may be made into a paste at home.

5. Pewter. There are two kinds of pewter. The old, with a lead constituent that darkens with age and is very difficult to brighten again. Finely powdered pumice is effective or rottenstone mixed with whiting and water. Modern pewter requires little care other than a good cleaning with soap and water.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

A FAINT warning bell rang deep within my consciousness as the bound' gangster "traded' this information concerning a menace to my father for my promise to telephone a message for him. But I knew I must get away where I could be free of his eyes before I could think the problem out and act upon it.

"Thank you," I said mechanically. "I'll tell him, and now I'll go into the store and telephone."

Something so evilly triumphant leaped into the cobra-like eyes of the man who had impersonated Professor Diswell that I knew he believed he had succeeded in getting to his chief in New York news of his whereabouts and the failure of his mission. But he also exultantly believed his plan to use me for the destruction of my father was succeeding. Of that I was reasonably sure.

I turned away abruptly so that he should learn nothing from my face, and beckoned to Jim Watson.

Confides In Watson.

"I have to do some telephoning in the store before we go on," I told him. "Please see that this car does not start until ours does, and follow us closely into the city, stopping when we do."

"I'll see to that," he said. Then the state trooper appeared at the door of the car.

"Will you keep an eye on those birds while I speak to Mrs. Graham?" he asked.

"Sure thing," Watson responded, and forthwith climbed into the car while the trooper walked with me toward the store.

"I thought I ought to tell you, Mrs. Graham, although you probably know it, that 'overcoats' is a word sometimes used by gangsters to men 'coffins.' I heard him use that word in the message he gave you, and I thought you ought to know."

"Thank you," I told him, "and I am sure you will be glad to know that the message will never be sent out. I am going into the store to telephone, if they will let me, but I shall not send the message that man gave to me."

Getting Shorthand Record.

"I am glad to hear that," the trooper said gravely. "Is there any other way in which I can help you?"

"No, thank you, except to keep on with what you are already doing—taking down everything said by any of those gangsters."

"Then I'd better be getting back," he said. "But they've kept pretty quiet so far.

"Let us hope they give you something to do," I told him, smiling, although I felt more like shrieking as I hurried into the store, followed closely by the storekeeper, Mr. Branchman, who had just finished servicing our car.

"I would like to telephone New York," I told him, "but I want first to sit very quietly by myself for a minute or two and think things out."

He led the way to the back of the store and behind a pile of boxes disclosed a table piled with books and papers, with a telephone on one side of it and a comfortable chair in front of it.

"I think you'll be comfortable here," he said with kindly solicitude—"and as there are very few customers at this time of day, I'm sure you won't be disturbed. To make sure, I'll stand outside and try to talk the arm off any customer who may happen along. That's my best specialty—talking."

He gave me a whimsical smile and I spoke quickly.

"I'll hurry as fast as I can," I said.

"Don't!" he adjured me heartily. "Take all the time you need. But don't forget that you have to ring that phone bell at the side before you take up the receiver."

"I know," I said, for I had been used to that sort of contrivance in New Hampshire mountain cabins.

I leaned forward in my chair when he was gone and, putting my elbows on the table, cupped my chin in my palms and faced the problem the gangster's words had given me.

How could I most quickly warn my father of the danger which the gangster had said was menacing him?

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, May 21.

An intriguing and surprising day in which the propitious and adverse influences follow each other in quick succession. The outstanding matter should come with sudden and dramatic force, possibly enforcing a radical and uprooting change, with high adventure and far-reaching effect upon current affairs. This may be in the private or business life, with romantic or emotional crises.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of peculiar, intriguing, and contradictory experiences with adverse and beneficent conditions following each other with swift and startling force. This may affect the business, financial, emotional and social life with deep significance, and hold peculiar aspects in shaping the fortunes and destiny.

A child born on this day may have a rather strange and dramatic life, with many reversals as well as benefits. It will be unusually creative and efficient.

"The Authority on Authorities"

IMPOSSIBILITIES OCCUR

All sorts of results can come in the play for a particular contract, from very simple differences in tactics by the two sides. A contract which gets set at one table is not only made at another, but sometimes produces an extra trick or two, as a consequence of different ways of going about the matter.

	♠ Q 7 5 3 ♥ 9 8 5 3 ♦ 6 4 3 ♣ 6 3
♠ A J 9 8 6 ♥ J ♦ K J 9 7 2 ♣ A 7	W. N. E. S.	♠ 10 ♥ K Q 10 7 6 2 ♦ Q 8 ♣ Q 9 8 5
	♠ K 4 2 ♥ A 4 ♦ A 10 5 ♣ K J 10 4 2

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♥

Wherever this hand was played at 4-Hearts by East, the South player had a mean job to decide what was his best opening lead. In two cases the club J was chosen, but the results were highly different. One declarer took that first lead with the A, and led the diamond 2 to the Q. South stayed off with the A, but used it on the second diamond lead. Thereupon he cashed the club K and heart A, and then led the club 4, enabling his partner to ruff with the heart 5, setting the contract.

At the other table, East let the club J ride to his Q, and then led the diamond Q, which South took immediately with his A, following with his heart A and the heart 4 to the 10. East had no trouble getting the rest of the tricks by merely running hearts and diamonds, giving him all of the club discards he needed.

Tomorrow's problem.

Simple Foods Used Today For Meals

By BETSY NEWMAN

The housewife must think of everything she gives her family to eat and everything she buys for them to wear as part of the country's wartime effort. Let us plan with this in view, and cheerfully economize in food without impairing our health, learning to like foods that are good for us and can be obtained. You may use canned or fresh fish, cooked, in the macaroni and fish dish recipe I am giving you today. You can use spaghetti instead of macaroni, too, if you prefer. The combination is a good dish for either luncheon, supper or dinner.

Today's Menu.

Fish and Macaroni
Brussels Sprouts
Perennial Prune Salad
Hot Rolls
Coffee

Fish and Macaroni.

2 cps. cold flaked fish
2 tbsps. butter
2 tbps. flour
1½ cps. milk
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 hard boiled eggs
3 cps. cooked macaroni or spaghetti
½ cp. bread crumbs
1 tsp. parsley

Melt butter, add flour and stir in milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until thick, add salt, pepper, parsley and fish. Put layer of macaroni in greased baking dish, add layer of above sauce and sliced eggs. Repeat until dish is full. Spread bread crumbs on top, dot with butter and bake in moderate oven until brown—about 25 minutes. Eggs may be omitted if you prefer.

Perennial Prune Salad.

16 cooked prunes
1 pkg. cream cheese
½ cp. finely cut celery
⅓ cp. sweet pickle relish
⅛ tsp. salt Few drops tabasco sauce

"You know," says Joe Lesch, veteran manager of athletic teams, "I almost wish I was staying around here this summer, to keep that team together."

Joe was talking about the Mansfield all-star softball team which meets the Ferguson State Auditors of Columbus Sunday afternoon at Liberty park.

"We're really getting a ball club put together there," says Joe, "and I couldn't think of anything that would be more fun than sticking around to manage it."

* * *

And it wasn't so long ago that Joe was saying:

"Boy, I'm glad I won't be here. It looks like a dead summer in sports for Mansfield, and that I wouldn't want to see."

What a whale of a difference just a few weeks make!

* * *

Joe, as you know, has enlisted in the air corps, and is waiting his turn for induction. He's asked me not to mention it any more "because pretty soon people will think we're foolin'." So just consider it unmentioned.

I am very happy to report that the Mayer of Stocking avenue is showing a lot of early foot this spring.

Possum Run Golf Champion Joe Mayer played his first round of the season on his native heath the other day, and just toured the layout in 34-36—70. Nine consecutive pars he had on the outside.

Two under par, and he hadn't touched a club since last summer. Looks like the boys will stage their usual tournament battle to see who is going to be runner-up to the Mayer again this season.

FLASH—Mayer shoots 33 in first league match Tuesday. That's all, brothers!

Coolridge golfer Pete DiSanze lost a ball, but he knows where it is, and he doesn't want anyone to get it for him.

The ball is lodged fast, high up in a fork of an old hickory tree by No. 7 fairway.

"That's as close as I'll ever get," says Pete, "to making a hole-in-one."

One full page is taken up by a page-wide picture of the team with its trophies, together with Milton Raymer, secretary of the American High School Bowling Congress, Al Vogel, manager of Colony alleys, and Harry Russell, high school faculty member, plus Raymer's account of the boys' visit to the ABC.

On the next page is a column and a half article by Captain Al Wooley, giving his impression of the trip.

Illinois Golfer Cops Big 10 Cup

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP)—Jimmy McCarthy, of the University of Illinois, who plays both football and golf, who is headed for the Marines, and who never entered a conference meet before this year, is the new individual links titlist of the Big Ten and the University of Michigan is the 1942 team champion.

A junior from Lockport, Ill., McCarthy finished 72 holes of medal play in 301 strokes yesterday, two better than Ben Smith of Michigan and Spero Daltas of Minnesota to seize the crown worn last year by Alex Welsh, also of Illinois, and incidentally to win his first college golf letter.

The Wolverines, paced by Smith and Capt. John Leidy, posted a four-man total of 1255, highest winning score in four years, and edged out Minnesota by three strokes in a nip-and-tuck struggle.

Ohio State's quartet, one of the pre-tournament favorites, took a third place 1259. Trailing were Northwestern with 1265, Illinois 1275, Wisconsin 1297, Indiana 1306, Purdue 1388, and Chicago 1413. Iowa did not compete.

Indians Sweep Series

Lead Yanks in Games But Trail in Points.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

OUT in the middle west where there is no gasoline rationing the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians have managed to get themselves into a traffic tangle at the top of the American league.

The world champions have been stalled for almost two weeks, the weather and schedule combining to keep them idle on nine of the last 13 days, but meanwhile the Indians have won eight out of nine games to create the worst congestion of the season around first place.

Today the Yanks still are two percentage points ahead, but the Tribe is half a game in front on won-lost reckoning. The standings show:

* * *

New York	20	9	.690
Cleveland	22	10	.688

* * *

The Indians ambushed the Philadelphia Athletics again yesterday for a 4-1 triumph on the four-hit hurling of slim, red-haired Charles Embree, rookie from Wilkes-Barre making his first start. He had the help of home runs by Oris Hockett and Jeff Heath.

Mel Harder, who has been waiting quite a spell for another start, was nominated by the Indians today for hurling duties against the Boston Red Sox.

Harder has been tagged for duty several times recently, but Manager Lou Boudreau held him back for better weather. He was all set to go yesterday, but Boudreau decided to try out his "kid battery"—Red Embree and Jim Hegan. And Embree pitched a four-hit, 4 to 1 victory to make a sweep of the four-game series with the Athletics.

* * *

The Tribe is out for revenge today, for in three meetings at Boston, it lost every game to the Red Sox. Harder is seeking his third win, compared with two losses.

* * *

A home run by Oris Hockett, with none on in the first inning, and another by Jeff Heath in the eighth, with Hockett aboard, featured the Indians' batting attack on Rookie Dick Fowler. Hegan, who like Embree is a product of the Wilkes-Barre farm, beat out an infield hit in the fifth and scored on singles by Ray Mack and Roy Weatherly for the Tribe's other run.

The Yanks were not scheduled and occupied the day by blasting Milwaukee of the American association in an exhibition game, 8-2.

In the only other American league game the Detroit Tigers trounced the Boston Red Sox 5-2 with Hal Newhouser pitching six-hit ball.

The Brooklyn Dodgers continued to sweep aside all opposition in the National league by tagging the Chicago Cubs 6-1 for the pacemakers' eighth successive victory. Curt Davis pitched six-hit ball.

The Cubs and Dodgers also added another chapter to the touring history of Babe Dahlgren, the journeyman first baseman, as Brooklyn bought him from Chicago for waiver money.

* * *

Philadelphia staged a twilight game for army and navy relief funds and 3,336 persons paid $3,732.20 to see the Phils beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 and knock the Buccaneers out of third place.

* * *

This enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to advance by beating the New York Giants 8-4.

The Boston Braves clung precariously to second place by turning back the Cincinnati Reds 2-1. Old John Cooney's single with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning brought home the winning run.

DODGERS EXPERIMENT WITH TWILIGHT BALL

NEW YORK—(INS)—Due to the ban on night baseball here, the Brooklyn Dodgers will start their game with the Philadelphia Phillies at 6 p. m. next Monday as an experiment.

If this twilight arrangement works out satisfactorily, all of the 13 other scheduled night games will begin at that time, President Larry MacPhail said.

Close Games Played In Softball League.

Teaco staged a three-run rally in the seventh, but fell just one run short and lost the opening game of the American softball league to Local 1405 Dominion yesterday at Prospect park, 3-4.

Dominion had saved the day by pushing over two runs in its half of the seventh.

All three games of the league's opening night were decided by one run. Barnes Manufacturing edged Ideal Electric, 2-1 in the tightest game of the evening, with all three runs counted in the first two innings. Winebrenner and Parr each hurled four-hit ball.

In the other game Ohio Public Service squeezed by Mansfield Tire, 6-5.

Bob Kuzava Hurls One-Hit Shutout

CANTON —(AP)— The Canton-Erie contest provided the Mid-Atlantic league's action-plus game last night as Charleston was strengthening its hold on first place by taking both ends of a doubleheader at Springfield.

Outfielder Ed Heinrich hammered two home runs over the right field fence and Erie smothered the Terriers 19 to 6. He got his first in the sixth inning with the bases loaded and the second in the next frame to score two mates.

* * *

Springfield got only one hit off Kuzava in seven innings and the Charleston Senators won the first game of a double-header 1-0. Charleston won the nightcap 4-2.

* * *

The win dropped the Cardinals from second to third place in the standings. Zanesville moved into the No. 2 spot by defeating Dayton 7-3.

Brewers Swamped, Climb to First

(By Associated Press)

Although Milwaukee's Brewers postponed their American Association chores yesterday to take on the New York Yankees, they bobbed up today in first place in the association flag chase.

While Milwaukee was taking an 8 to 2 beating at the hands of the Yankees, Kansas City stumbled before Toledo's Mudhens, 7 to 1.

* * *

The defeat left Kansas City with a standing of 18 victories and 8 defeats. Milwaukee has won 20 and lost 8.

* * *

At Indianapolis, two errors in the sixth inning helped St. Paul to three runs and contributed to the Indians' fifth straight defeat. The score was 4 to 3.

In the other game Harry Kelley scattered 10 hits to give Minneapolis a 4 to 1 decision over Louisville.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Lou Nova and the army just about wrecked the ballyhoo for the Nova-Lee Savold navy relief fight in Washington tomorrow. . . . First Lou announced he had laid aside all his cockeyed yoga and cosmic punch nonsense; then the word came out that the army didn't intend to let Joe Louis fight for profit. . . . That left the tub thumpers with nothing to work on but Savold. . . . The Dodgers already had sold most of the seats in good locations for all 14 night games when that blackout order came along Monday. . . . Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, voted most likely to succeed by his Chicago Cardinal teammates, has been made assistant superintendent of a Chicago machine tool firm and placed in charge of the company's defense plant at West Pullman, Ill.; general superintendent for the firm's Chicago plant is Sollie Sherman, retired Bears' quarterback.

PAT 'N' MIKE.

If this story sounds too perfect to be true, we'll admit we heard it from a publicity guy. . . . Seems that a couple of years ago Mrs. Payne Whitney was listening to a broadcast of the Dodgers' game and thinking of names for some colts. When she heard Red Barber say "It's a shut out," she picked the tag for the Kentucky Derby winner.

Golf to Help Navy and USO

Hale American Joust Staged as Benefit.

By LESTER RICE

NEW YORK —(INS)— On a fifty-fifty basis the Navy Relief Society and the United Service Organizations are to be beneficiaries of the Hale American open golf tournament June 18-21 at Chicago.

This was the announcement by the United States Golf association which, at the same time, appointed Francis Ouimet boss of the tournament and disclosed entrance requirements. Amateurs rated at six strokes or better are eligible along with the professionals. Club membership is not a requisite. Entry fee is $5 and the closing date for enlistment is Wednesday, May 13.

The last five U. S. open champions and Bob Jones, the old Emperor, who was the first to accept a bid to play, have been granted exemption. The erstwhiles number only four since Ralph Guldahl won the title in 1927 and again in 1938. The other three are Craig Wood, Lawson Little and Byron Nelson.

* * *

So, too, are the last five P.G.A. exempted together with the man who is to win next month's 1942 edition at Seaview. Here, again only four qualify because Nelson was a winner in 1940. The four are Private Vic Ghizzi, present defender; Henry Picard, Paul Runyan and Denny Shute.

* * *

Also members of the Rider Cup team who number eight besides those already qualified. These are Walter Hagen, honorary captain; Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan, Lloyd Mangrum, Harold McSpaden, Gene Sarazen, Sam Sneed and Horton Smith. Herman Barron, western open champion, is granted immunity and so, too, is Bud Ward, 1941 amateur champion.

In accepting the Navy Relief Society's prospective share of the proceeds, Stanton Griffis said:

"The money realized from the tournament will go to the fund which provides direct help to the families of men in the United States Navy, wounded or killed in the service of our country. It covers thousands of cases which might feel want and misery before relief can come through the just and orderly processes of government aid.

"Never before has the need been so great as now. In one day at Pearl Harbor more United States Navy men were killed than in the entire first World war and the Spanish-American war combined. Our goal is $5,000,000. That is the sum needed now, to be drawn on for mothers and wives and children of men stricken down in the line of duty.

Thousands Ohio Athletes Vie for State Honors

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— More than 1000 of Ohio's top-flight high school athletes, survivors of county and district qualifiers, descend on the Buckeye capital Friday and Saturday to compete for state championships in four sports—track-field, baseball, golf and tennis.

* * *

The coveted track-field crown is expected to bring about a two-way scrap between Cleveland East Tech and Springfield's scintillating Wildcats, with the remainder of the field fighting for also-ran spots.

* * *

East Tech and Springfield won district championships in easy fashion, while Cleveland Heights, which tied East Tech for the toga a year ago, was not among the top contenders. The Cleveland schools were deadlocked at 22 points last year, seven ahead of Springfield. The Wildcats from Clark county, however, have pushed aside tough opposition this season in winning warm-up meets.

New champions in Class A and Class B baseball were assured as Cincinnati Withrow and Beaver Creek failed to qualify, but the golf and tennis kings have a chance to repeat. Upper Arlington, golf champ, finished second to Worthington in district play, but is among the qualifiers.

* * *

In tennis Joe Pickering of Youngstown Rayen, singles champ of 1941, is among the eligibles, although he lost the district title to Alex Franklin of Akron Central, while Norman Appel of Cincinnati Hughes, half of the 1941 winning doubles combination, shifted to the singles this season to win his district laurels and a spot in the state finals.

* * *

On the basis of qualifying scores, the North College Hill squad of Cincinnati is an odds-on choice for the golf title. The Queen City quartet had a 296 total, an average of 74. That left the North College Hill team 22 strokes ahead of second place Hamilton Public, and 23 up on Tiltonsville. Logan, with 377, was last among the qualifiers. James Rudolph of North College Hill breezed in with 70 to lead the State, and Team Mate Sheldon Peters was second with 73.

Finals in all competitions are scheduled Saturday afternoon at Ohio State's athletic plant, with preliminaries Friday.

Joe Mayer Shoots 33 For Medal Honors.

Richland Printing got away in the lead in opening night play in the News-Journal "A" golf league last evening at Possum Run with a 4-1 victory over Weaver Home Supply, while all other matches were decided by the 3-2 route.

Quaker Market edged Barnes & Schmidt, Andregg Billiards defeated Long Bar, and Big Three won from Club Billiards.

Joe Mayer took medal honors with a 33, knocking three strokes off par, and beating his last year's average by two strokes.

Carl Wiseman was the only other par smasher, trimming one stroke from perfect figures for Two extra-hole matches went into the books, Al Hager taking Pete Zeides on the tenth, and Chuck Snyder doing the same to Tony Schadek.

MOTORS LEAD STOCK CLIMB OF FRACTIONS

Irregular, Narrow Changes Shown By Other Issues; Power Use Drops.

NEW YORK — Motors were among the best performers in the stock market's dealings today. Other leaders showed irregular and narrow changes.

General Motors and Chrysler each picked up fractional ground. Kennecott was a shade higher, while New York Central, Montgomery Ward and U. S. Steel were unchanged. A trifle lower were Santa Fe, Dupont, Union Carbide and United Aircraft.

Attracting attention in view of Atlantic coast dimouts and renewed discussion as to the adequacy of the nation's power resources was the weekly report of the Edison Electric Institute showing energy consumption for the latest period at 3,356,921,000 kilowatt hours.

This was off slightly from the preceding week and, being a contraseasonal dip, the Associated Press index of electric power production declined to 158.7 per cent of the 1929-30 average from 158.8 per cent the week before.

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

Chinese Blasters Block Jap Advance

CHUNGKING — (U.P.) — Chinese demolition squads, operating over a 350-mile area on the lower fringes of Yunnan province, have blocked further Japanese thrusts into southwestern China for the time being by littering the enemy's invasion route with blasted bridges, dynamited railroads and impassable highways, an official report disclosed today.

With the invasion temporarily stalled at Lungling, 40 miles inside China, Gov. Lung Yun of Yunnan predicted an imminent withdrawal to the Burmese frontier.

"It is obvious now that the enemy is not attempting to invade Yunnan province in a big way," he said. "But no matter how the situation may deteriorate, Yunnan will be defended."

Lung said the enemy apparently had decided against pressing an invasion deep into Yunnan because of difficult terrain and the effectiveness of Chinese guerrillas.

Not even the Burma road, for several years China's lifeline, has been spared by the Chinese demolition squads, it was revealed. Since the Chinese blew up the main bridge across the Salween river, 70 miles inside the frontier, systematic destruction of the asphalt highway has been carried out.

There are 104 regular playing members in the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra.
